Why choose our plans?

There's nothing worse than waiting 3-4 weeks for your building permit only to have the local building official reject the design. Construction delays cost you time and money! But there is a way to reduce the pain of the permitting process. Choose Home Designing Service, Ltd. to design your next project! We are members of the American Institute of Building Design (AIBD) which is leading the way in producing some of the finest homes in America.

Home Designing Service, Ltd. has been designing homes in Connecticut and New England for over 70 years. During that time we have established a fine reputation with local and state building officials. Often this helps to expedite the permitting process and can also help us go to bat for you when problems arise with obtaining a permit. Our established relationships and superior design standards can help you fast track your projects.

Services for Builders and Developers

Site Licenses

If you're building multiple homes why not use the same plan twice or more? It's already been approved for permit! For a small site license fee, we will authorize you to reuse the plans for the construction of additional homes.

Marketing Materials

We offer full color 3-D Photorealistic Renderings to help your potential clients see your vision for the project and to convey its advantages over the competition. These renderings can also be incorporated into marketing materials including one-sided ad sheets, full color brochures and full color postcards and mailers.

Once you've obtained your permit, and construction has begun, you'll be glad you chose plans designed by Home Designing Service, Ltd. Mistakes on the project site can be costly and time consuming. Our blueprints are accurate and easy to read so there's no time wasted trying to decipher the plan through a clutter of unnecessary details. We use state-of-the art CADD systems to design your plans, which means that lines, dimensions and notes are clear and legible. This reduces the opportunity for mistakes to be made. If there are any design related issues that do arise during construction, our designers are ready to assist you over the phone or on-site.

When you choose Home Designing Service, Ltd. to design your next project, you're not just choosing a designer, you're choosing an experienced partner who will be with you every step of the way!
